A Path to Healing and Support

At Hope Center for Children, we understand that life's challenges can be overwhelming, and we are here to help. Our therapy program is available to individuals of all ages in our community who are seeking support for a variety of emotional and mental health concerns. Clients may self-refer or be referred by other agencies or programs. We'll match you with the therapist best suited for your needs, considering factors such as personal preferences, scheduling, and the therapist's area of expertise. To get started, your therapist will complete an intake assessment with you, where you'll work together to establish treatment goals and create a plan for moving forward.

Our team of skilled therapists provides support for a range of issues, including trauma, anxiety, depression, anger, adjustment, and mood disorders, however support does not extend to substance abuse treatment. We also work with clients who are court-ordered to counseling. Our team of therapists have a variety of specialized training including Accelerated Resolution Therapy, art therapy, and music therapy.

Therapy sessions are billed to insurance or Medicaid, and when needed, we offer self-pay options and sliding scale fees to ensure services are accessible to all. Currently, we accept Medicaid, BCBS, Aetna, Cigna, and UHC.

In addition to offering services to our surrounding community, our therapists also provide in-house, trauma-informed mental health counseling to the youth in Hope Center for Children's residential group homes. This is a convenient and essential service as the children in our care begin to process and heal from the trauma they have experienced.

April is National Child Abuse Prevention Month

Pinwheels are the national symbol for Child Abuse Prevention Month expressing playfulness, joy, and happy childhoods. Child Abuse Prevention Month is a time to recognize the importance of families and communities working together to prevent child abuse and neglect.

In Spartanburg County, there were 401 substantiated cases of abuse and neglect reported in 2024. Although lower than the previous year, this is the second highest in the Upstate and fifth highest in the state.

In the effort to continue reducing the number of cases in our community, Hope Center for Children provides programs and services designed to help parents and caregivers get the support and resources they need. Learn more about our Positive Parenting Program, Therapy Services, and Family Resource Connection and Preservation Services by visiting www.hopecfc.org/services.

Join us this April to learn more about recognizing and preventing child abuse and neglect. We believe that everyone can play a role in building safe, stable families and environments for children to thrive.

Volunteer Needs

Spring is here, and we have many opportunities for individuals or groups to volunteer at Hope Center for Children. We've listed a few ideas below, but please contact our Volunteer and Social Media Coordinator, Kate Brown, to discuss ways you or your group can get involved.

- Host a donation drive
- Campus upkeep – painting, yard work
- Provide a meal or send gift cards (for one or all houses)
- Washing buses/vans
- Preparing mailings

Contact Kate Brown at (864) 583-7688 ext. 153 or kbrown@hopecfc.org
